Happy New Year to everyone! This is a day historically dedicated to resolutions, remembrances and yes, prophesies. For some, January 1st marks another "try again" season. Try to move on, make friends, lose weight, exercise more, get a better job, pay your bills on time, do better in school, keep the house cleaner, save money, be a better listener, get a spouse... The list goes on and on.

I suggest, no, I strongly urge you to put the following at the top of your list. Focus on making God your number one priority. Put Him before your spouse, before your kids, before your health, before your wealth, before your career, before your goals, hopes and dreams.

I'm hoping that you are asking yourself, "How do I do that? How do I put God first?" The answer is very simple and very difficult. Spend time with Him. This means turn off the TV, turn off the telephone, shut down the computer, cancel some lunch dates. It may also mean getting up an hour earlier to pray and study God's word or otherwise carving out niches of time for Him only, because you cannot know one if you do not invest time in that someone.

I promise you that if you focus on God, His word and will for your life, many of your goals will be realized, many will disappear (not in line with His will) and many of your goals will be gloriously lost in your increasing desire for more of God. Again I say, Hallelujah and Happy New Year to everyone.

12/18/2005

December 18, 2005 shall always be an important date of remembrance for the RHCF family, as it was the day that founders Ed and Cora Jackson became officially ordained as pastors and ministers of the gospel.

God called, anointed, equipped and appointed the Jacksons to His service, and for many years they have been obedient to His commands.

The ordination was public recognition and a time of rejoicing and fellowship. RHCF thanks Rev. Jimmie James and Greater Things Ministries for the most important part they played in this event.

The entire membership of RHCF attended the festivities as well as Pastor Ed's parents and Pastor Cora's brother and sisters. The ceremony was especially meaningful because of the participation of Pastor Linda McMechan, Evangelist Hazel White and STANDance. And, to top it off, we were blessed with the culinary contributions of long time friend, Jeremiah Beckwith, Jr. God is good, faithful and full of favor. Hallelujah!
