February is Black History Month.

We owe the celebration of Black History Month, and more importantly, the study of Black history, to Dr. Carter G. Woodson. Born to parents who were former slaves, he spent his childhood working in the Kentucky coal mines and enrolled in high school at age twenty. He graduated within two years and later went on to earn a Ph.D. from Harvard. The scholar was disturbed to find in his studies that history books largely ignored the Black American population—and when Blacks did figure into the picture, it was generally in ways that reflected the inferior social position they were assigned at the time.

Woodson, always one to act on his ambitions, decided to take on the challenge of writing Black Americans into the nation's history. He established the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History (now called the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History) in 1915, and a year later founded the widely respected Journal of Negro History. In 1926, he launched Negro History Week as an initiative to bring national attention to the contributions of Black people throughout American history.

Woodson chose the second week of February for Negro History Week because it marks the birthdays of two men who greatly influenced the Black American population, Frederick Douglass and Abraham Lincoln.

February 14th is Valentines Day.

This date is not necessarily a Christian holiday but it is a huge national day of observation. Many prepare for the day, making dinner reservations, buying gifts, ordering flowers, writing silly poems, purchasing special clothing, etc. Others dread the day, mourning for loved ones who have passed on, remembering broken promises or yearning for that special someone to fill the empty chamber in the heart. We react, positively or negatively, all in the name or pursuit of love.

I submit the following:

Real love cannot be bought, although giving is a natural result of love. Real love is eternal and it cannot be turned on and off like a faucet. Real love may not look very attractive; it isn't contained in a slim waistline or six pack abs. Love is not sex.

True love comes only from God. It is the 'God' kind of love. God's love can be shared, it can be passed on. The love of God is 'spread abroad in our hearts' and it spills over into our everyday lives. Husbands have it for wives and vice versa. Mothers can have true love for their children and the reciprocal is true. Bosses can truly love their employees, teachers can love their students. This love is not 'emotion'- it is not 'soul'-ish love based on retribution or retaliation. 'Agape' love suffers long, it is kind, not envious, not prideful, not selfish; it is joyful, truthful and thankful. True 'agape' love comes from God and it is worth celebrating.

This February 14th please remember that someone loves you totally and truly. God loved you so much He gave the best that He had, so that He could have you always. He is your forever valentine.

~ Pastor Cora

Jesus Teaches About Prayer

—Matthew 6; Luke 11

Talking to God

Jesus taught us how to pray, but in the copy of His prayer below, someone has mixed up all the sentences! Draw lines from the first part of each sentence to the correct words to finish it. If you need help, look for the matching telephones.

Our Father

but deliver us from the evil one.

hallowed be

our daily bread.

your kingdom

on earth as it is in heaven.

your will be done

in heaven,

Give us today

as we also have forgiven our debtors.

Forgive us
our debts,

your name,

And lead us not
into temptation,

come,
